Tammy Belt asked Jessie Howard, GRADD Special Projects Coordinator, to provide the corporation with an update on the Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS). Ms. Howard shared every five years GRADD must re-write the CEDS to identify strengths and weaknesses in economic development in the region, along with strategies to continue to improve progress. In between those years, updates are written to address the strategies outlined in the CEDS. Ms. Howard asked the corporation to function as the CEDS strategy committee, thereby sharing ideas via email with her through surveys about current economic development approaches.

Ms. Howard has a meeting with other area development districts on April 18th after which she will have a more defined idea of this year's re-write requirements. She will share the current plan with members through email, which is also available on the GRADD website.
